DEPUTY MARSHAL GIVEN AWARD CERTIFICATE

U. S. Deputy Marshal Sam O. Peterson, the man who served most of the legal papers in connection with the government's acquisition of easements and property for the NASA test site in Mississippi, has received a Department of Justice certificate of award.

The certificate, which carries with it a $300 award, is in recognition and appreciation of meritorious services performed in behalf of the department.

Marshal Jack Stuart, Jackson, announced the award. Stuart said that the service of Peterson included many miles of travel in southwestern Mississippi and many hours.

Peterson estimates that he served between 10,000 and 12,000 process papers in connection with the acquisition of properties in Hancock and Pearl River counties. Many of the papers were also served in Harrison and Jackson counties.

Marshal Stuart said that Peterson obtained a greater percentage of successful service on the numerous papers served locally than did the marshals of districts in other states in the same cases. Many of the landowners involved reside in states other than Mississippi.

Peterson has been a deputy marshal for about four years, the last two of which he has been assigned in the Biloxi division of the court.

Peterson is a former resident of Bay St. Louis, son of Mrs. Maggie Peterson and the late Sam Peterson. He also served at one time as deputy sheriff of Hancock County.

CHRISTMAS AT OUR LADY OF THE GULF

"Suddenly it is Christmas." Heaven bends to earth at Bethlehem. The angels sing God looks upon the world through human, infant eyes. In many hearts He sees that hatred still lingers on, hatred that always turns against some man. But the message is still the same, "Peace on earth to men of good will." And glory to God in heaven. We will give glory to God by giving love to man.

God today has put on human flesh to show His love for every man. Heaven comes to every man, and every place in Bethlehem. Mary bids us enter the stable, the shepherds adore, the angels sing, and once again it is Christmas.

Miss Sandra Fillingame, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fillingame, 314 Delmonte, Bay St. Louis, was named Saturday as Bay-Waveland's Junior Miss of 1964.

She was chosen by a panel of five judges from a field of nine contestants in the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored pageant at St. Joseph's Academy, Grambling.

Miss Fillingame, a senior at Bay High School, also received the scholastic award and placed first in two other of the five categories, interview and talent.

Miss Ann Goetsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goetsch, was chosen first alternate and placed first in the poise and appearance category.

Miss Melva Luke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Luke, placed first in the youth fitness category and was named second alternate.

Miss Marilyn Piazza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Piazza, was voted by the contestants, hostesses and committee as Miss Personality.

The five-foot, five-inch, brown haired, hazel eyed Junior Miss was crowned by Miss Carolyn Anderson of Gulfport, Mississippi's reigning Junior Miss of 1964.

She received a $200 scholarship, a charm bracelet and merchandise. Her trophy and one dozen Junior Miss roses were presented by Mrs. Anderson.

Miss Fillingame's talents were the piano and sewing. She made the full-length fitted dress she wore in the pageant. It featured an empire waist, low back scooped neckline and a loose back panel and was made of champagne slipper satin.

She also displayed three other outfits she had made for school activities and described them while a tape of Beethoven's For Elise, which she had recorded, was played in the background.

Miss Fillingame told the judges she would like to study engineering because she likes precision work and enjoys mathematics.

She has been a secretary of the student activity council for two years, treasurer of the senior class, president of the science club and a member of the national honor society.

The scholastic award judging was by the principals of four high schools and a college registrar.

The judges - Mrs. Ruby Moore, instructor at Linda Brooks Modeling School; Mrs. Mary Collier, guidance counselor at Gulfport High School; Buddy Broadway, president of the Piquette Jaycees; Mrs. Frank Gordon, a director for Gulfport Little Theatre; and Mr. Rupert Cooke, former vice president of Gulf Park College met the contestants at a tea in the afternoon and conducted 10-minute interviews with each.

Each of the other contestants received a charm bracelet. These were Misses Janet Crow, Linda Dunnham, Dorcel Russell, Karna Crawford and Nan Nelson.

The first and second alternates and Miss Personality each received trophies and charm bracelets.

TIMBER STAND IMPROVEMENT

The first rule is, do not kill any tree unless you have a better tree to take its place.

Where cull trees are interfering with the growth of better trees, take them out. Cull trees include trees that because of crooks, twists, rot, fire or insect damage, or excessive knots, do not have promise of value in the reasonably near future.

A new method of killing cull trees involves the use of a meter-type tree injector, with which a mine 2,4-D is injected into the ground level.

Amine 2,4-D is used full strength. It is cheaper than 2,4,5-T in oil. The material should be injected at the ground level at two-inch intervals all around the tree that is to be killed.

Some reasons for doing timber stand improvement work in the dormant season include: travel through the woods is easier, working in the woods is more pleasant, insects and snakes are less of a problem. Also small trees of desirable species are more easily seen.

RAT AND MICE CONTROL

Statistics show that one rat will cost you an average of $10 a year. And if you see one rat around your barn or feed room chances are that many more are around.

Can you afford this loss? Most folks cannot. You can do something about it, though.

Proper use of poisons will help you rid your farm of these predators.

The anti-coagulant poisons like warfarin, PMP and pival are recommended. These are the safest to use.

Rats must eat these materials for several feedings to be killed. Place containers of bait in runways and keep them filled. Around a cupful in a clean container is recommended for each bait station.

You can buy these materials ready to use or you can buy the straight materials and mix your own. Be sure to read and follow all directions on the label, when using these or any other chemicals.

Mice are becoming problems in many homes. The cold weather is driving them to shelter. Instead of poisoning the mice and taking chances of them dying in walls and causing odors by baiting them.

Formalin, PMP and pival are recommended. These are the safest to use.

HE SO LOVED...

HE TAUGHT THE WORLD TO LOVE

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son.

How meaningfully are these words today, nearly two thousand years after the humble beginning of that One Great Life at Bethlehem. How Holy and purposeful was this life upon earth that it comes to us again and again in the spirit of Christmas to remind that the real joy and the real goodness of life lie not in riches and gold, or self attainment, but in thoughtful and unselfish service and love.

For He so loved the world that He taught the world to love through one great and wonderful life upon earth. He set down for all mankind and for all time the supreme example of the good life. In His every deed and action He portrayed the qualities of love and faith and kindness.

These qualities—and more—are all a part of Christmas. But, by His example, they are qualities that should abound in our lives throughout the years.

In thankfulness to God, for all His goodness and love, we should keep the Christmas in its true and joyful meaning, the spiritual occasion of the birth of Christ. And if we can keep the spirit of Christ within our hearts throughout the year.

DRIVE CAREFULLY — BE HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas music... Santa Claus... gifts... traffic. These components form the outward appearance of every Christmas Season. Just beneath the surface of this holiday spirit runs an undercurrent of danger. Danger in the form of increased accidents and fatalities during the end-year holidays. As pointed out earlier by the Highway Patrol the last 12 days of the year are the most dangerous to Mississippi drivers. Just how dangerous?

According to the Commissioner of Public Safety, "our statistical section has just provided us with some current figures on holiday accidents and fatalities that really drive the point home. Average figures for the last three years indicate that we may expect an accident every 31 minutes during the period from December 20 until January 1. And for every 18.3 accidents that occur there will be one fatality. This compares to an average of 1 fatality for every 36 accidents annually."

What this means to our drivers is that their chances of becoming a traffic fatality over the Christmas holidays is doubled. We do not want this to happen to anyone. We are doing all we can to help our drivers toward a safe holiday but, in the final analysis, the answer lies with each person who seats himself in a vehicle behind the wheel. Unless he vows to drive as carefully as possible, he could be one of the unfortunate few that will never see another Christmas... maybe not even Christmas 1964.

SET DATE FOR ENDING RESERVES

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon is aiming to complete the revolutionary reorganization of the Army's Reserve forces in about 16 months, it was learned this week.

Key officers of the National Guard and the Army Reserve have been told in secret briefings that the objective date for final action is the end of March 1966.

It is expected that Guard and Reserve outfits will go to summer training next year in their present form, some of these officers told the Associated Press.

The Army staff, aided by Guard and Reserve officials, already has begun the difficult job of working out solutions for the problems involved in shifting 150,000 Army Reservists and their units to the National Guard.

One of the first jobs to be handled is the drafting of a "troop list." This involves surveying the 4,000 Reserve units to decide which 2,000 or so will fit in the expanded Guard organizations, and how they will be distributed among the states.

TROOP LIST

Such a troop list - which is really only a beginning point for the reorganization, is not expected to be ready before Mid-February. At that time, the states will know what units they will lose and what units they gain.

Plans are being made to brief state governors, who have a power-

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

SUE BARNABY, folding the evening newspaper, glanced speculatively at her husband. If he'd read the announcement of Michael Haines' return to the Feather Room, he was certainly keeping quiet about it.

"Bill, let's go dancing at the Feather Room tonight. Celebrate Christmas." She tried to keep her voice calm. She knew she was foolish to have a crush on Michael Haines after all these years. "Mother! Stay with the boys."

"Bill, let's celebrate Christmas at the Feather Room." Bill smiled as he ran one square hand over his thinning brown hair. "I'd like to see if Michael's wearing a toupee."

MISS. OPTOMETRISTS MUST HAVE POST GRADUATE EDUCATION

Mississippi optometrists will be required to have post-graduate education each year as a condition for license renewal, according to a recent ruling by the Mississippi State Board of Optometry.

Dr. Irvin Mauldin, Board President, announced the ruling in a letter to all of the state's vision specialists. The letter lists the recognized courses which are accredited by the board. The ruling becomes effective in January and applies to all license renewals for 1965.

"Because of the rapid technical developments now being made in vision care," Dr. Mauldin said, "if an optometrist is to continue to render the best possible vision care and serve as his patients' first line of defense against blindness."

Dr. Mauldin noted that the first educational conference of 1965 to have Board approval is the conference on "Vision Care of Children and Young Adults" to be held at the University of Mississippi, January 10-12. The conference is sponsored jointly by the Mississippi Optometric Association and the University of Mississippi.

"Bill Barnaby, you know Michael doesn't wear a toupee! Oh, why did she always defend Michael?"

Suspicion
Not only that, but I suspect he's put on weight, too."

Later, at the Feather Room, when Sue saw Michael on the bandstand, she saw at once he was neither fat nor wearing a toupee. Bill would be miserable all right. Watching Bill, Sue felt her heart tighten, reached for his hand as Michael approached their table.

"Sue! Bill! Swell of you to come!" Michael's handsome face lit up. After all, they were old friends. But she didn't like the way Bill looked. He became more and more depressed as Sue and Michael caught up on the last ten years. Before returning to the orchestra, Michael spoke gravely, looking at both Bill and Sue. "You're a lucky couple! It's been great seeing you again. Merry Christmas!"

Thoughtful
Sue was unusually quiet on the way home, staring silently into the gray night. No cooling, no humming, no tapping of feet.

"Bill, what'd you think of Michael?" She spoke abruptly but Bill didn't even turn his head. Bill cocked his head and looked closely at Sue, who continued: "Well, first of all, you spent two years in the army, and not singing, either. Then when you came home, you started the used car lot with barely more than our own car, and then you got the agency, and now you have a whole city block, with new cars and used cars and a garage, and everything. Why, we even have money in the bank! And the boys, and our own home—"

"Yeah, I know but—" "And that Michael Haines isn't one bit different in ten years. Not one bit! He even has all his hair." Sue moved closer to Bill. "Don't you think Michael could have done better after all this time? He's right back at the Feather Room where he started."

"You forgot one thing, Sue. Ten years ago Michael got a measly hundred bucks a week for being with the crowd at the Feather Room. For his return engagement, he haunts in about five thousand a week. You can't exactly say the guy's stood still. I won't say he's great or anything like that, but I'll give him credit."

Sue noticed there was no anger in Bill's voice, no sign of jealousy. It was just like him to sense the minute she changed toward Michael. "How come you're getting so generous all of a sudden?"

"From now on you can hum all you want. Tap your feet, too, if you like." Sue smiled and felt relieved it was all over at last. Michael was right about one thing. Sue and Bill were a lucky couple. "Merry Christmas, Bill," she whispered, thankful they'd gone to the Feather Room to celebrate, knowing in the dark Bill was happy, too.

RE-DEDICATE SHELBY STATE PARK CHANGE NAME

Shelby Rogers, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the State Park System and Robert E. Foster, Park Comptroller, announced plans for the re-dedication ceremonies of Shelby State Park near Hattiesburg, the name of which has been changed to Paul B. Johnson State Park, honoring the late Governor Paul B. Johnson, Sr., and the present Governor.

The ceremonies will be held on Sunday, December 20, at two-thirty p. m., at the entrance of Johnson Park. The principal speaker for the occasion will be Mississippi's senior U. S. Senator James Eastland, who was originally appointed to the Senate by Governor Paul B. Johnson, Sr., and who is a close personal friend of the Johnson family.

Rogers and Foster in a news release stated, "Sunday, December 20, will be truly a red letter day for the Mississippi Park System. We are proud that the state park in their home county has been renamed for the late Governor Paul B. Johnson, Sr., and his son, our present Governor. "We have issued invitations to all members of the Legislature, the heads of state departments, and the colonel's staff of both governors. In addition, the general public is cordially invited.

"We are very fortunate in having such an outstanding statesman as Senator Eastland deliver the dedicatory address on this occasion," the statement continued. "The advisory committee for the Johnson State Park, which is composed of leading citizens and public officials of Hattiesburg and Forest County, is preparing an elaborate program for the day, and we look forward to a large attendance for the dedication ceremonies."

In 1899, the USS New York and the USS Massachusetts were the first Navy ships to use Marconi's wireless telegraph.

Hardwoods, which are abundant in many areas of the South, are becoming increasingly important as a source of raw material for the pulp and paper industry. In 1963, for example, 22 percent of the Southern pulpwood supply came from hardwoods.

NEW TAX SAVING OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE ELDERLY

Twenty years ago and over will find substantial tax savings in several provisions of the 1964 Revenue Act. Mr. J. G. Martin, Jr., District Director of the Internal Revenue Service, said these benefits are in addition to the rate reductions that will reduce the tax bills of all taxpayers.

For the elderly, tax savings from the new law are estimated to be over $600 million a year.

Of benefit particularly to taxpayers 65 years of age or older are these provisions in the 1964 tax law:

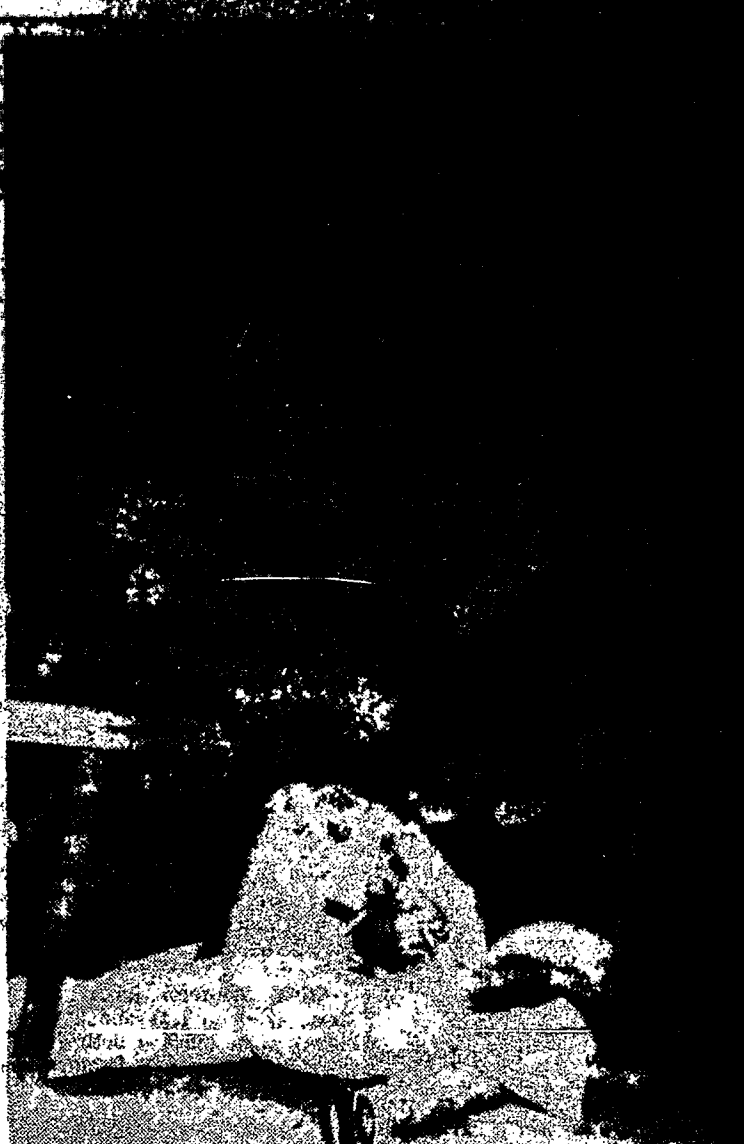

1. The minimum standard deduction.
2. Removal of the one per cent floor on medicine and drug expenses.

Christmas is a wonderful time, it's just around the corner. When it's not helping around the house, he's figuring how to get in a little more fishing and hunting.

This year, Christmas falls on Friday and working people will have a long weekend. Many will be away visiting loved ones. Still not much outdoor activities can be indulged in. Better plan to go New Year's weekend, it's another long one.

Many hunters stop on their way home from the marshes and pick up a couple of sacks of oysters. They are at their best right now, fatty and fat. Another thing they have on their mind is that good old oyster dressing for that Christmas dinner.

Did you know that while cleaning ducks and geese or most any fowl, you should cut off the tail part, as there is an oil bag therein. There are two little holes which extract the oil that makes the feathers waterproof. The birds apply this oil themselves. A lot of folks think that ducks, etc., have a wild taste. This oil bag is what causes that wild taste. Another thing is that some ducks taste like fish, that is true of ducks that eat fish, but even the famous mallards we have cleaned have small minnows in their craws which do not effect the taste of the meat. Even the lower class of wild ducks are edible and good when you know how to cook them. Soaking them in vinegar we think is the bunk. That oil bag could make them taste wild.

Chickens are the worst scavengers in the world, but their meat is always delicious.

A beautiful Christmas tree is in Frank Trapani's Knock Knock on the Beach. It's worth going to see. Many an hour was put into making those hand decorated balls on the tree.

Speckles should be caught soon at the Pass Christian Harbor. They come in about this time or a little later and are usually of good size. Flugs, and especially the Shad Rig, bring best results. Red fish are also caught on dead bait in the harbor.

Oystering is picking up daily and large quantities are being caught. It is interesting to go to Bayou Caddy and watch the oyster boats come in and unload their cargo. Bud Taconi is in charge of the oyster department of the Seafood Commission and is always on the job. Part of his work is patrolling the waters, inspecting the oysters caught, and seeing that those trolling and catching oysters abide by the laws. Bud is also a swell guy to know.

Commander Jos. Williams says he doesn't get time to do much fishing but loves to eat them. Will keep you on our mind when we get some, Bill.

When called a liquor-head by a

What's going on in the marshes, see a new and know where you are going. It's a wonderful place to get lost.

Changes are always being made, and one of the most modern is that a fisherman nowadays only has to pick up his old rod, a few shadrigs or a few other artificial baits and catch all the fish he wants, that is speckles, green trout, perch and even reds. In the old days, live shrimp had to be caught or bought and live shrimp are now selling for 3 cents a piece. A few artificial baits costs only a little and last a long time.

Was a real pleasure to greet J. E. Loiacano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Loiacano who returned home Tuesday from Canton, Ohio where he was a member of the Pro Canton Bulldogs, playing line backer for the Bulldogs who won the U. F. L. "All League" championship with a 132 record. "Bullet" as he was nick named by his teammates, will be home for quite a while. J. E. expects to play pro football again next year with what team and where, is not known as yet. Welcome home J. E.

"Rich" Weifenbach of Jackson, Miss., loves to fish and hunt and claims to be good at both. Believe Rich loves his fly fishing best. Will find out when he comes down to do some fishing with us. Will see you later Rich!

Fred Van Peski returned to the Bay Tuesday from the tropics to spend the holidays with his family. Van likes to fish and should get in some while he is in the States. All his friends were glad to see him.

Keen Raulet killed his first wild goose last week plus some ducks. Keen, though young, is going to make a good hunter. Listen to your Dad and you've got to be good, Keen.

Yours truly expects to spend the holidays in New Orleans with the families. Will probably get in some hunting and fishing with the men folks.

The last-minute fishermen buying Christmas gift tackle for a favorite angler, can get "as confused as a cross-eyed mule in a traffic jam." Ask your local dealer, preferably a good fisherman or hunter for his advice. In this way "even the person who doesn't know a surface plug from a bottle opener can buy tackle like an expert."

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Rural Recreation Enterprises, Wise Land Use: Last year over a million acres of American landscape was converted to sites for subdivisions, shopping centers, highways, industrial plants and other needs of an increasingly urbanized and industrialized nation. Added to this increase in urbanization is a corresponding increase in population, resulting in more people living at a faster pace with more time and less land.

The Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission in a three-year study, reported in 1962, concluded that the demand for outdoor recreation would double by 1976 and triple by the year 2000.

Hiking, swimming, fishing, horseback riding, camping and picnicking are some of the most popular activities for fun in the outdoors.

Several cooperators with the Hancock Co. Soil Conservation District are already planning income producing recreation enterprises on their land. Profit making recreation enterprises, however, is for most people a new and tricky business. Landowners should judge the situation carefully before investing heavily.

The Hancock County SCD can give planning assistance with the service of specialists of the Soil Conservation Service.

IDEAS VARY ON CUSTOMS OF YULE

Some people enjoy a White Christmas, while some people go swimming or picnicking on December 25. Some people say it's traditional to serve turkey at the holiday feast, while some people favor a Christmas goose, and still others contend that carp or fried eel is the very thing for a tasty Yuletide dish.

Around the world, Christmas customs vary, but on one point nearly all agreed. It's a season to celebrate.

In the United States and Canada, the "melting pot" origins of the population result in a medley of Christmas traditions from all over. Americans and Canadians from Central Europe still prepare their traditional Yuletide foods with carp, while those from Italy might hanker for some Christmas capon, made with fried eels.

Especially during a severe winter, residents of the Northern U. S. and Canada would be glad to change places, or at least change weather, with those Australians, South Americans and others who enjoy summer activities at Christmas.

On the other hand, North Americans have made their own contributions to Christmas around the world. For instance, there's Santa, white-bearded and red-suited, who is now replacing St. Nicholas and other Yule gift givers in many countries.

IN GREECE

Young people of Greece foretell their romantic future at Christmas by tossing olive leaves on a burning Yule log. Tradition decries if the leaves, symbolizing the girl and man, curl toward each other, the lovers can expect their happiness to be long-lived.

If the leaves burn apart, their romance may be fraught with difficulties. The best result, however, is if the leaves burn to a crisp. This means their love is deep and all-enduring.

IN JAPAN

December 25 is not a national holiday in Japan, but you'd never know it from the colorful store decorations and the happy squeals of youngsters, gifted by "Santa Claus."

Department stores may have as many as 100 Santas.

IN GERMANY

The celebration of a West German Christmas is filled with tradition, foremost of which is the Christmas tree, dating back 400 years. Until recently, trees were trimmed with candles, and although artificial lighting for tree ornaments has been introduced, the candles are still preferred by many.

HD CLUB MEETS

Construction of the St. Louis Gateway Arch, destined to be the nation's highest monument (see chart for comparison with Washington Monument and Statue of Liberty), is now past the half-way mark—over 300 feet or higher than a 30-story building. The 630-foot monument, made of more than 5,000 tons of various forms of modern steel, will commemorate America's westward expansion following the Louisiana Purchase. Designed by the late Eero Saarinen, the Arch's gleaming stainless steel plate skin will be visible for 30 miles. A special train will whisk visitors up the Arch's hollow steel plated and reinforced legs in less than two minutes to an observation platform within the top.

MARION LEADS IN VINE-RIPE TOMATO TESTS AT STATION

STATE COLLEGE, MISS. - Marion continued to produce the highest yield of vine-ripe tomatoes in the 1964 variety tests at the Truck Crops Branch Experiment Station at Crystal Springs.

John A. Campbell, superintendent of the station, said Marion also had the lowest percentage of stem cracking. This variety has been widely accepted by growers in the Copiah County area.

Supermarket had the greatest early yield, but its total yield was low. Bradley, the second highest in yield, has the same pinkish color as Gulf State Market. This color is preferred by many shoppers.

Five leading varieties in the 1964 trials were introduced along with many breeding lines. Yields in 1964 were reported as follows: Marion 536 bushels per acre, Bradley 479, Manapal 471, Supermarket 424 and Rutgers 407. All varieties are resistant to Fusarium wilt with the exception of Rutgers which is susceptible to this disease.

Records were taken on fruit harvested every two to three days when pink color was just breaking at the blossom end to one-half of the fruit surface showing color. Thirteen pickings were made from June 9 through July 10.

"Tomatoes allowed to ripen on the vine have a more attractive appearance which is associated with better flavor and superior quality as compared with artificially ripened green wrap tomatoes," Mr. Campbell said. "For this reason considerable attention and effort have been devoted to breeding and testing tomato varieties for vine-ripe production and market qualities."

COMMITTEE ASKS OYSTER GRANT

A recommendation that $50,000 be granted by the state to the Hancock County Marine Conservation Commission has been made by the joint Committee on Salaries and Expenses of the Mississippi Legislature.

The committee's recommendation was announced at the commission at a meeting last week at Biloxi. The money was recommended by the legislative committee for the conservation commission to plant and relocate seed oysters and oyster shells.

Action on the recommendation was launched by the committee of legislators after visiting the Coast and after a report was submitted by Chief Inspector George Williams of the Marine Conservation Commission.

Chief Williams reported that there was a need for funds to move oysters from areas which are now heavily patrolled by the conservation commission on a 24-hour daily basis because oysters in these areas are not fit for human consumption.

"While this commission is a self-sustained agency and can function under normal conditions, our budget does not allow us any finances for emergency proposals such as this, neither does it allow for capital improvements nor expansion programs," Chief Williams explained in his report.

ASK REPORTS

After receiving the chief inspector's report, the committee asked Marine Biologist William J. Demoran for a report on where seed oysters will be planted if there is an accelerated program during the spring and summer of 1965.

The biologist was also asked by the legislative committee for a resume of the conditions of the existing oyster growing areas in the state as was found during most recent surveys.

Demoran's report on the proposed planting program as approved by the conservation commission indicated the following:

In Jackson County, 6,000 barrels of shells will be planted in Middle Bay 500 yards from the west shore. In Graveline Bayou, 200 barrels of seed oysters will be planted at points one mile and one 3/4 miles from the mouth of the bayou in Jackson County; these seed oysters to be removed from Pascagoula Reef.

Off Ocean Springs 300 yards east of Ocean Springs harbor channel marker in Jackson County, 2,000 barrels of shells will be planted.

At Ocean Springs, 350 yards southeast of the harbor entrance, 2,000 barrels of seed oysters will be planted, being moved from closed areas of Biloxi Bay.

In an area of 600 acres with the center being 3,000 yards south of the shoreline off Henderson Point in Harrison, 16,000 barrels of shells will be planted thickly.

Star-spangled way to sweeten up your future

The old American proverb says, "Money isn't everything, but it sure helps."

And that goes double for the money you put in U.S. Savings Bonds. Because this money helps two ways.

First, it helps your future. Putting money through college, building homes and comfort, buying a car for you and the spouse. You don't want to leave it to chance.

Second, it helps your country now, by making Uncle Sam a stronger nation in an uncertain world.

Now Uncle Sam's hands are full with over 40 billion dollars in U.S. Savings Bonds. Why not join them? There's no other investment anywhere in the world.

NASA News..

HUNTSVILLE, ALA. - The NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center has awarded a contract for $2,011,160 to Motorola's Military Electronics Division for development of a test model of the AROD system.

AROD derives from on-board the test for determining position and velocity of spacecraft and launch vehicles, was conceived by engineers at the Marshall Center's Astrionics Laboratory and is being developed under their direction.

Derived from the words Airborne Range and Orbit Determination, the AROD uses less costly ground stations than do ground based systems.

OROD derives from on-board the vehicle information as to its velocity and position at any given moment. This information can be used for navigation purposes as well as for measuring vehicle performance.

Work on the 15-month project is to be done in the Military Electronics Division's Western Center Telecommunications Laboratory at Scottsdale, Ariz. Motorola was one of eight firms submitting bids.

Development of an AROD test model is the second phase of the research and development project. Prior work on the system has been done by Marshall and a number of contractors. This included development of a design study model system which has been tested in the laboratory and is now ready for preliminary testing aboard an aircraft.

This contract calls for development of an advanced model AROD which will be suitable for use aboard space vehicles.

A CHRISTMAS RESTITUTION

BY D.L. ALEXANDER

MARY WENDELL stood at her bedroom window scratching at the frost on the glass. It was bitterly cold outside, with a hard wind blowing. Deep snow covered the ground and clung to the leafless trees, and the birds who had neglected to return to the warmer south huddled in such shelter as could be found.

Mary's face wore a look of sorrow and dejection, and a sob rose once in a while to relieve the tension that otherwise threatened to engulf her.

She had tried to save a little money for Christmas, but after paying her bills she hadn't a cent left. Christmas's hadn't mattered much because Donna had been too young to know about such things. This year he had heard people talk about Santa Claus and had asked questions.

It was the day before Christmas, a time of cheer and good will, but there was no cheer in her heart. Life had been trying for her as she had left Concord and cut herself off from her friends of former days. Sickness and the loss of one job after another had kept her on the edge of destitution.

"May I come in," he inquired.

"Mommie, will Santa bring me something?" Donna had asked when she had put him to bed the night before.

"I don't know, darling," she had answered, knowing she couldn't buy him even a stick of candy.

She raised her head and looked at the crib where he was sleeping. He was well covered and warm. She left the window and went into the sitting room where a cheery fire dispelled most of the cold. She went to the window and pulled the shade down as if, unconsciously, she could dispose of the black mood that assailed her.

In the center of the room she fell to her knees. "Oh, God," she prayed in anguish, "please lift my burden from me. I know I did wrong, but I know You have forgiven me by allowing me to keep my little boy. Please, God, provide me with the means of making this a happy time for him, in recognition of Your Son's sacrifices for us. Amen."

Visitor

A knock on the door brought her to her feet. She glanced that way but didn't cross the room until it was repeated. Then she opened the door to confront a tall, blond man in army uniform who stood in the dimly lit hallway. She recognized him instantly.

"Why, Donald Bruce," she cried hoarsely.

"May I come in?" he inquired. She was too startled to answer, so he laughingly brushed her aside and entered.

He took a quick look around the room and noticed the evidences of poverty. "Why did you quit writing?" he inquired.

"There wasn't much to say," she answered weakly.

He went to the doorway of the kitchen and looked inside. Then he crossed the room to the bedroom doorway, saying: "It seems to me there could have been a lot to say."

His eyes took in the crib and the baby in it. He hurried across the room, Mary following him. He looked down and studied the face of the sleeping child for a few minutes, and then turned to Mary with an unspoken inquiry in his eyes.

"That's why I left Concord—to avoid the talk and gossip," she said.

He looked again at the child searchingly, and then said: "Why didn't you tell me?"

"I didn't think you would care." "Good Heavens, woman, do you think I'm heartless? Do you think I'd have left you to face all this alone without my help?"

He held his arms out to her, and she flew into them, the tears coming freely.

A voice came from the bedroom. "Mommie, has Santa come yet?" "In a little while, dear, and he's going to bring you a new papa," she answered.

Marked progress is being made by Southern wood-using industries in utilizing the whole tree, as indicated by the rapidly-growing consumption by the pulp and paper industry of residues from sawmills and veneer plant operations. For instance, the use of such residues for pulpwood soared from 78,000 cords in 1953 to over four million cords in 1963.

LET'S TALK MISSISSIPPI

Commercial Broilers, Mississippi produced a total of 156,510,000 commercial broilers in 1963, an increase of 24.5 percent over the previous year, and a new record for the state. Total state broiler production amounted to approximately seven percent of the national total. The state also exports many of its broilers. Gross income from the industry during the past year was over $70 million.

Telephone Poles - Telephone poles used throughout the nation are grown in Mississippi. An official of the Bell System reports that approximately 40 percent of all such poles used by the Bell System in the United States "had their roots originally in Mississippi." The state's climate and soil blend to produce some of the finest utility poles in the nation, both for telephone and electric power lines.

Old Capitol Museum - One of the showplaces in Mississippi is the Old Capitol Museum in Jackson. Restored several years ago, it is now filled with many interesting items of interest for historians, students, tourists, both young and old. During one month this summer, some 18,000 visitors, representing 32 states, toured the historic building. Both tourists and homefolks leave the interesting site with a better understanding and appreciation of the state's history.

IN THE WAKE OF A SONG

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend church regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation.
(4) For the sake of the church which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Miss Cheryl Danielle Seuzeneau and Mr. Gerald Stephen Kennedy III exchanged marriage vows Saturday at a nuptial Mass at Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory peau de soie made on a ca'hedral train. She wore a point d'esprit and lace mantilla, an heirloom in Mrs. Kennedy Jr.'s family. She carried an ivory prayer book with a spray of butterfly orchids.

They wore short wine-colored gowns with bluish pink satin accenting the empire line and forming the bows holding their short veils. They each carried a single pink cabbage rose.

Mr. Gerald Stephen Kennedy Jr. was his son's best man. Groomsman were his brother, Mr. Basil Kennedy, and his uncle, Mr. Kenneth Chew Kennedy of New Orleans. Ushers were Messrs M. G. Seuzeneau Jr., brother of the bride, and William A. Briant of New Orleans.

A reception was held at the Bay Waveland Yacht Club. Mrs. Seuzeneau, who wore a shell pink double-knit suit, was assisted in receiving by her mother Mrs. Benjamin Harrison Hale, Mrs. Kennedy Jr., and her mother Mrs. Ernest Emile Allgeyer of New Orleans.
